

FACADE

Sagorika Chakraborty
3rd Floor, A 55,
Sector 19, Dwarka
Behind Vardhaman Mall,
Near Amberhai Village,
Delhi – 110075

Wounded, I couldn't sleep
It was not the bleeding that hurt
But the pain my heart
That shattered me
I lay awake
Collecting pieces of myself
Recollecting days long gone
Attempting to erase
Failing... Falling... I gaze
Into the empty nights
That once were full
With spoken delight
Now silence lulled
Tired... Swollen... Eyes closed
Emptying into sleep... Pain snored

As another day dawned
The sleepy world yawned
Awakened to a day long
I looked different... A façade put on...

About Author

Sagorika hails from Bengal, has done schooling from Delhi and graduated from Mumbai University; at present she is pursuing to be a Chartered Accountant. She maintains huge interest in literature with an inclination towards poetry.