The feeling is so intense of loneliness
Should I despair or should I move on?
The answers are never drawn from
The thoughts which don't impress
Why is the human being so complex?
Or do we ourselves make them so?
How can I understand others when
I don't understand my own self?
Am I my own friend or foe?
The questions never cease
The emotions remain confused and in strife
There seems no release
I feel so abused by life.
Should I revel in self pity and doubt?
Or should I stand up tall and proud?
The answers never come about...
Oh! Why do I find myself lonely in the crowd?
