

MAJULI

by - Arbind Kumar Choudhary

Majuli is a land of milk and honey
Where fancy man and fancy woman
Create heaven for the zenith
Of naked -thinking heart
Amidst many a saint John's wort.
Majuli is a bliss of solitude for a man of vision
Who hankers after satriya culture for humanism
Amidst many a deism.
The cultural capital
Captivates for carefree life
Amidst humdrums of lives.
Majuli is a grove
For a man of free – love
Amidst many a treasure – trove.

Contributor:

Arbind Kumar Choudhary, the originator of Arbindonean Racy Style of versification and Indianised version of Arbindonean Sonnets in Indian English poetry, has propounded his philosophy of life , nature,love and poetry in Melody, Nature, Love and The Poet for the saving grace of Tom, Dick and Harry on this strife-stricken earth.Dr.Choudhary has been included in Cambridge Dictionary of English Writers,London in 2009, World Poetry Almanac, Mongolia in 2008, 2009& 2010,Four Contemporary Indian English Poets,2014,Romania, English Poetry in India,2012, Comtemporary Poets in 2012,World Poetry Yearbook,China,2014 , Five Indian English Poets, Jaipur, in 2015 and Twelve Contemporary Indian English Poets in 2016 respectively. Dr.A.K.Yadav has already edited two collections of anthology on his poems entitled-‘Arbindonean Iridescence in Indian English Poetry’ in 2015 and ‘Arbindonean Luminosity in Indian English Poetry’ in 2016 published by Paradise Publishers, Jaipur. Presently Dr. Arbind Kumar Choudhary, an editor of Kohinoor, has been heading the Deptt of English at Rangachahi College,Majuli,Assam,India-785104.Email:kohnoor@rediffmail.com